

Family-Friendly Vacation Destinations That Even Jaded Teenagers Will Love

Excerpted from an article by Melissa Klurman

Whether it's climbing to the top of Table Mountain in cosmopolitan Cape Town or searching for The Big 5 of safari lore (lion, leopard, elephant, rhino, and Cape buffalo) in the wild bush of Kruger National Park, few places on the globe offer the level of thrills available every moment of a South African adventure (which is happily an affordable travel destination that makes you feel like a VIP).

Micato Safaris, which specializes in arranging trips throughout Africa for families, says: Devices are put on hold and imaginations are engaged on family safaris. Fabulous sights are seen, horizons stretched, educations enhanced, and bonds strengthened. And if that weren't enough, there an added bonus: For every trip booked with Micato, they send a child to school. Talk about a win-win.
